

Your professional future with nspm

Thank you for your interest in working at nspm. We strongly believe that motivated and valued team members are the greatest resource a company can have, and the key ingredient in reaching ambitious goals.

For medical writing positions, we are looking for individuals with a PhD/MD and excellent command of English. If you are convinced that you have the required experience and qualifications as outlined below, we look forward to hearing from you.

Associate Medical Writer

After completing a PhD/MD in medicine, life or health sciences, or pharmacy, you will be working under the supervision of a Senior Medical Writer who will gradually introduce you to different topics and aspects of medical writing. You will develop excellent communication and writing skills with training from experienced medical writers and will learn how to develop powerful, evidence-based scientific and medical information for different audiences.

What we expect from an Associate Medical Writer: initiative, commitment, excellent writing skills, ability to interpret complex data quickly, a high level of accuracy and attention to detail, willingness to learn and perform, and flexibility to adapt to changing situations and priorities.

Medical Writer

Benefitting from your initial editorial or medical writing experience, you will be taking on challenging tasks and using your scientific writing skills, enthusiasm and creative thinking to wow our clients. You will work in a team and depending on the particular account or project requirements, you will manage subprojects or specific parts of the project, and take ownership and responsibility for content development and delivery. As part of your role, you will have direct interaction with clients, healthcare professionals and other third parties, as well as providing on-site support at client meetings, congresses, advisory boards, etc. Experienced Senior Medical Writers will provide guidance and support.

Dedication, reliability and quality orientation, combined with strong relationship building skills and a drive to understand and meet our clients' needs are the criteria for success of every Medical Writer.

Senior Medical Writer

As a Senior Medical Writer you will translate science into compelling messages and lead a variety of medical writing projects to provide outstanding solutions. You will take ownership and responsibility for delivery on time, on scope and on budget. You will build trusting, professional relationships with clients and help grow our portfolio to shape the future of our company. As part of your role, you will support, train and supervise junior medical writers. And as an expert in your field, you will contribute to innovative "out of the box" solutions, help with the preparation of pitches, and participate in client and other external meetings.

Excellent analytical skills and medical writing experience, good project and people management skills, result orientation, and the ability to influence and gain consensus are the criteria for success of a Senior Medical Writer.

Principal Medical Writer

You will be regarded as an expert with proven writing capabilities and in-depth knowledge that allow you to become a trusted advisor for our clients. You will lead complex scientific projects working with cross-functional teams and play an active role in the professional development, coaching and mentoring of more junior medical writers assigned to your projects. Your tasks will include, among other things, critically reviewing medical writing documents to ensure scientific rigour and clear communication, providing strategic scientific/technical input to develop innovative "out of the box" solutions, and supporting with the acquisition of new and organic business.

We expect from our Principal Medical Writers that they act entrepreneurially and have an excellent understanding of the market with strong focus on our client's needs, have highly developed project and people management skills to create an encouraging environment, and that they have a flexible and pragmatic approach in order to work efficiently and balance changing priorities.

Account Director

As Account Director, you will be in charge of leading/managing assigned accounts and team(s) and driving projects from initiation to completion in terms of financial management, content development and delivery. You will play a key role in maintaining and growing existing business and identifying new business opportunities, and raising the profile of nspm. You will coach and mentor team members to further their professional development, act as a role model for communication and cooperation, enhance team spirit, and foster a culture of high performance and achievement. You will personally set an example of our core values: excellence, ingenuity, collaboration, tenacity and trust.

We expect from our Account Directors a profound understanding of the industry, the ability to apply scientific knowledge in order to deliver effective solutions, experience in a client facing and account leading role, and the drive and willingness to facilitate change and initiate improvements.

Get in touch with us!

If you are passionate about medical communication and want a role where you can really make a difference, please send your unsolicited application to professionalfuture@nspm.com.